"Powerhouse trio from Phoenix, these guys are what rock & roll (whatever you call it) is all about." – The Grestch Pages

"Voodoo Swing takes traditional rockabilly and gives it a thoroughly modern roots twist" – Buster Faye's Rockabilly Romp

Voodoo Swing gets into deep water in upcoming "Linda Lee" music video. What such crime could justify this cruel punishment?

Voodoo Swing is Shorty Kreutz on lead guitar and vocals; Walter Spano on drums and Tommy Collins on the doghouse double-bass. Their unique style of "rip-it-up" Rockabilly first attracted England's Nervous Records in 1993. Voodoo Swing's debut album "We're Usin' Code Names!" is followed by a second album, "Well, Okay Then!" released on Netherlands' Rockhouse Records label. The band also scores the soundtrack for the Lowrider documentary "Low and Slow" as well as for the full-length feature film "Rockabilly Vampire". In 1998, Shorty is awarded "Best Electric Guitar Player" by Salt Lake's City Weekly Magazine reader's poll. In the early years, the band headquartered in Salt Lake City. After a long hiatus, the band regrouped in Phoenix and since then released, "Greasers Por Vida", "Refried Voodoo Beans", "Keep on Rollin'", "Fast Cars, Guitars, Tattoos and Scars", and "To You My Friend". This summer they will be taking their grease and guitars on tour in Europe.

Current EP on sale :: In the summer of 2017, Voodoo Swing released their latest EP, "Nervous Wreck" via Chromodyne. Proving that they remain faithful to retro, roots music and traditional American rock 'n' roll: painting raw pigments of rich bluesy nuances balanced with a greasy touch of darkness.

LINDA LEE SYNOPSIS

Linda Lee hearkens to the true rock 'n' roll lifestyle. Poor Voodoo Swing just can't stay away from beautiful hotrods and pin-ups! When a group of fierce ladies get their wheels back in a shocking condition, they become a force to be reckoned with. Determined to make Voodoo Swing clean up their grease, their punishments get creative. They might even enjoy the torture a little bit. Did I also mention there's a rubber chicken involved? You don't want to miss out on this vengeful story.

Linda Lee, won't you go steady with me?

Dir. Olivier Zahm, Asst by Ben Anderson
